Combination of Tobacco Growers

A combination of white burley tobacco growers of Kentucky will be attempted, in line with similar movements in other tobacco-growing districts, the aim being, in the end, to have all planters united to sell to the one buyer on the market. A meeting has been called for Winchester the first three days in November.

Will Lead Pennsylvania.

The prediction that Kentucky will take the lead over Pennsylvania in coal-producing States was made in an address before the Kentucky State Development Convention, at Winchester, by Dr. George H. Ashley, who spoke on the wonderful resources of the Kentucky mountains.

A Runaway.

While Mr. Chas. Whaley got out of his buggy to talk with Mr. O. P. Clay, about four miles from town, his horse ran off and was not stopped until Brit Herrington, colored, grabbed him in Lylesville. After Herrington stopped him he fought viciously, he striking Herrington on the forehead, cutting a deep gash.

D. of C. Elects Officers.

The United Daughters of the Confederacy elected the following officers at a meeting in their rooms at the court house Saturday: Mrs. R. J. Neely, president; Mrs. C. C. Leer and Mrs. Georgia Keller, vice-presidents; Mrs. Harry Clay, secretary; Miss Annie May, treasurer.

Mrs. J. T. Vansant, the retiring president, entertained the Daughters with delicious refreshments. There was a full attendance and a most enjoyable afternoon was spent. Guests from out of town present were Mrs. James Arnold, of Newport, Mrs. T. E. Moore, of Lexington, and Mrs. Bettie Mitchell, of Chattanooga.

Still Fighting in the Philippines.

In his annual report Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, of the Philippine division, argues against any reduction in the number of troops in the islands, on account of their isolated position. A widespread condition of lawlessness and resistance to government exists among the Pulajanes in the island of Samar, he reports, and seventeen companies of scouts and a number of companies of infantry are now carrying on the campaign there.

Ladies Auxillary of A. O. H.

The Ladies' Auxillary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, of this city, held a meeting Sunday afternoon at their lodge rooms, corner Eighth and Main streets, where forty-two were given degree work by the degree team of the Covington Division. The ladies from Covington arrived on the 11 a. m. train and were met at the depot by a reception committee composed of Mrs. John Dean and Misses Lizzie Lenihan and Margaret Toolin, and were taken to the New Fordham Hotel for dinner. The delegation besides the degree team, included the officers of the Covington Division and were as follows: Mrs. Lillie Morris, Mrs. Kate Kingsley, Mrs. Ella O'Connor, Mrs. Maggie Brown, Mrs. James Swinbourne, and Misses Mary Ryan, Annie Mullahy, Hanna Murphy, Sallie Maloney, Julia Corby, Mary Murray, Annie O'Connor, Jennie McDonald, Ada Conkling, Lula Murphy, Katie Bradey, Alice Doyle, Lizzie Dowling, Kate Cushing, Annie McDonough, Margaret Doyle, Sallie Moran, Nora Bitters, Lizzie Kelley and Nora Meyer.

The Louisville division, twenty strong arrived from Lexington, on the 1 o'clock car and assisted in the degree work.

Mrs. Harry C. Naylor Dead.

Mrs. Harry C. Naylor, nee Miss Ida Carter, of this city, died suddenly at her home in Crawfordsville, Ind., yesterday morning, of heart disease. She was aged about 45 years and was the oldest daughter of Mr. O. P. Carter, Sr., of this city. She is survived by her husband and two grown daughters, aged 20 and 18 respectively.

About two weeks ago Mrs. Naylor had the misfortune to fall down the steps at her home, breaking two bones just above her ankle in one of her limbs. Letters from her husband to her brother, Mr. O. P. Carter, Jr., stated that she was getting along nicely, and the telegram to him yesterday about noon that she was dead was quite a shock.

Mrs. Naylor was a most excellent woman, and had many friends in this city, her girlhood home, who are deeply grieved over the news of her death. Mr. O. P. Carter, Sr., and his son, O. P. Carter, Jr., left this morning for Crawfordsville, where she will be buried.

Two New "High-Ball" Trains.

About the first or fifteenth of November the L. and N. railroad will put on two fast through daily passenger trains between Cincinnati and Atlanta that will go through Paris. The train going South will be scheduled to pass here some time between nine and ten o'clock a. m., and the Northbound will reach here between five and six p. m. The trains will be entirely new and fast time will be made. This will be the shortest route between Cincinnati and Atlanta and about three hours time will be the advantage gained by this line. The Cincinnati morning papers will reach here an hour or more sooner than they do at present. The L. & N. is fast becoming a big competitor of the Q. & C. for its enormous Southern trade. Next Spring additional through passengers and a number of fast freights will be added.

A Clever Bride.

The religious marriage of Fraulein Bertha Krupp, the richest heiress in Germany and owner of the great Krupp steel works, to Lieut. Augustus von Bohnen und Halbach, who until recently was first secretary of the German legation at Pekin, was celebrated at Essen yesterday. Emperor William attended the wedding. Following the ceremony the bride had $150,000 distributed among the employees of the Krupp works.

Resulted In Much Good.

The action of the City Council at the last meeting in regard to the electric lights was a step in the right direction. The only way to settle matters of this kind is to go about them in a manner like you meant business. Mayor O'Brien called the question up and advised the council to cancel the present contract with the Paris Electric Light Company for lighting the streets. The Council then ordered the Mayor to notify President Dow that he could turn off his street lights on November 1st, the city having no further use for them until better service could be given.

The Electric Light people at once ordered the latest improved machinery and an entire different system for their plant, to be put in in next fifty days. The above action of the Council it is true comes a little late, yet at the same time it shows when officials are not afraid to do their duty companies of this kind can be forced to come to time, give what contract calls for or quit business.

Paris will now have the latest improved system for lighting in vogue in a short time, and the kicking that has been indulged in for many moons by our citizens will cease, and instead of cursing the plant we hope to hear nothing but praise for the new system.

The Passing of the Boss.

In a recent interview District Attorney Jerome, of New York, declared that "we are seeing the finish of the political boss." No observation of recent times comes nearer the actual truth. All over the country the political boss is being put out of business. If the people hold to their present mind, he will be entirely put out of business before the next generation assumes political responsibilities. The passing of the political boss is the beginning of political freedom.

There will always be leaders in politics, but between bosses and leaders there can be and ought to be a wide difference. As we have known him, the political boss is the man who is in politics for what he can make out of it, both for himself and for those whom he serves. On the other hand, the leader is the man who stands for principles, who espouses policies in the settlement of real issues, who guides public opinion along the lines of well thought out procedure. A leader is in politics from political duty, not for graft. Therefore, the leader will live as long as this country has democratic institutions.

The political boss is generally opposed to the true interests of the people. The political leader espouses those interests. Just as soon as the difference between them is fully appreciated by the people, they will make their choice so emphatically that the former will have no opportunity in American politics.

Exorbitant Rates of Adams Express Company.

Talk about regulating railroad rates should be stopped and the rates of the Adams Express Company taken up. That the citizens of Paris are literally robbed by this mammoth corporation there is no question. For instance, a package weighing five and a half pounds sent from Paris to Millersburg costs you thirty cents. Just think of it! Thirty cents to carry a package of that size eight miles, when the fare for a grown person on the train is only twenty-seven cents one way and thirty-five cents round trip. If this is not bareface robbery, what is it? Our citizens should petition the L. & N. for fast freights and agree to give them all of their business. The Adams Express Company has been robbing our people long enough and our citizens should take the matter before the proper tribunal for the outrageous rates now in vogue.

Making the Dirt Fly.

Everything at Panama is run on an expensive and extravagant plan. The Springfield Republican reports that, "there is an epidemic of demands for higher wages among the skilled white workman. The locomotive engineers began it with a demand for $225 a month. Then the steam shovel engineers asked for $250 a month, the railroad conductors $190, the shovel crane men $210, the molders, blacksmiths and machinists 85 cents an hour. No one is obliged to work more than eight hours a day, but many machinists, by working overtime, are already earning $250 a month, which is at the rate of $3,000 a year. But that is not enough. The government, too, seems to be at the mercy of these skilled employees, in a large measure."

The dirt must fly regardless of cost, or President Roosevelt would be in a hole, having promised so much.

Verily, 'Tis True.

The politician is my shepherd, I shall not want for anything in the campaign. He leadeth me into the saloon for my vote's sake. He filleteth my pocket with good cigars and my beer glass runneth over. He inquireth after my family, even to the fourth generation. Yea, even though I walk through mud and the rain to vote for him and shout myself hoarse at his election, he straightway forgetteth me. Although I meet him at his own house he knoweth me not. Surely, the wool has been pulled over my eyes all the days of my life. Verily, 'tis sad, 'tis true. Thusly one of our friends unburdened himself to us the other day.

Fining the American People.

If the Administration would do something to stop the tariff protected trusts from constantly advancing prices, there would be general rejoicing. The plan adopted of fining a few of the trusts, virtually fines the American people, for the trusts get even by putting up the price of their products. The Republican plan of standing pat and thus dodging the real trust issue, may have the advantage of making the trusts subscribe to campaign funds, as it leaves the road clear for the continued plundering of the consumers through trust high prices.

Every Little Bit Helps.

To help out Wall Street speculators Secretary Shaw has deposited $26,000 more with the favored National Banks without interest. This makes a total of $158,971,091 on deposit with the banks on the same favorable terms. But this is a reform Administration.

Candidate for the "Bug House."

They say that Senator Beveridge wept when he heard that Taft was flying the Cuban flag over the Cuban public buildings. When the imperialistic bug gets into a Republican politician's head of the Beveridge caliber, he is pretty near a candidate for the "bug house."

Human Blood Marks.

A tale of horror was told by marks of human blood in the home of J. W. Williams, a well known merchant of Bac, Ky. He writes: "Twenty years ago I severe hemorrhages of the lungs, and was near death when I began taking Dr. King's New Discovery. It completely cured me and I have remained well ever since." It cures hemorrhages, Chronic coughs, settled colds and Bronchitis, and is the only known cure for weak lungs. Every bottle guaranteed by Oberdorfer, the druggist. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

Tobacco the "National Flower."

If the great republic must have a flower, why not adopt the tobacco plant (Nicotiana glauca)? It is a native of this country and was first found in Virginia. There is nothing sectional or local about the plant, because today it is grown in most of the states from Florida and Louisiana to Connecticut and is now used in every nation on the globe, civilized and barbarian. If it is possible to obtain it. It is not commonly known that the tobacco plant bears a very pretty pink blossom, which might come into the flower gardens but for its rank and disagreeable odor. The Indian corn, or maize, is another plant indigenous to the United States and was found in use as food by the Indians from Virginia to Massachusetts. But if we must have a flower that is esteemed as such without regard to any economic considerations or utilitarian qualities, why not the laurel (Laurus latifolia), mountain laurel or broad leaf laurel?—New Orleans Playmate.

Vegetables and Fruits.

The term vegetable has reference to the whole or any part of a plant cultivated especially with reference to use at the table. But the use of the word vegetable doesn't always depend upon cooking, for celery is a vegetable and apples are fruit whether eaten raw or cooked. One would suppose the tomato to be entitled to the term fruit, for the method of its raising resembles that of fruit. But it is usually called vegetable, whether eaten raw or cooked. In spite of its appearance. The quince is so fruitlike in appearance, so resembling apples, pears, etc., that it persists in being called fruit though eaten only when cooked. Sometimes the vegetable is a bud, as with cabbages and brussels sprouts; leaves, as asparagus; stems above ground, as asparagus; stems enlarged (tubers) underground, as common potatoes, or roots, as sweet potatoes, turnips, beets and carrots.—St. Nicholas.

A Sly Poke.

Nell—When I met May today I had my new gown on. Of course I expected her to say something about it, but she pretended not to have seen it. Belle—Yes, she's an awfully considerate and tender hearted girl.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Universal Rule.

A good thing in one town sometimes fails to work in another town. Absolute knowledge seems to be rare, except that it always pays to be industrious, fair and decent.—Atchison Globe.

Cheerfulness bears the same friendly regard to the mind as to the body. It banishes all anxious care and discontent, soothes and composes the passions and keeps them in a perpetual calm.

A Bridge Kept in Repair by Mussels.

The byssus, or silky beard, by which the mussel moors itself to the stone, is a familiar object of our sea rocks. It is in its nature like the silk of the silkworm and exudes in a glutinous thread from an organ at the base of the foot. The following is an instance in which the mooling of the mussel was useful to effect a purpose which human skill could not accomplish: A large bridge, with twenty arches, in the town of Biddeford, in Devonshire, crosses the Torridge river near the spot of its junction with the Taw. The tide flows so very rapidly here that it was found impossible to keep the bridge in repair by means of mortar. The corporation therefore keeps boats employed in bringing mussels to it, and the interstices of the bridges are filled by hand with these mussels. It is supported from being driven away by the tide entirely by the strong threads which these mussels fix to the stonework, and by an act or grant it is a crime liable to transportation for any person to remove the mussels unless in the presence and by the consent of the corporate trustees.—Scottish Nights.

A TURKISH LEGEND.

Why the Much Married Man Got to the Mosque First.

Some years ago, when General Tewfik Hussein was the Turkish minister at Washington, he objected to the curious questions the newspaper interviewers asked him about the harem. One interviewer, however, told the representative of the sublime porte a funny story about Brigham Young and his many wives, and it induced the minister to reciprocate.

"There is a Turkish legend," he said, "to the effect that if a man prays seven consecutive mornings alone in the mosque for good luck it will come. Near St. Sophia mosque, Constantinople, a poor man lived who tried to carry out the injunction; but, when he knelted, to his chagrin he always saw another man who had arrived first. The fourth morning he could restrain himself no longer and cried out: 'What is the secret of your getting to the mosque first? I get up early and lose no time.' The other man asked, 'How many wives have you?' When he answered 'One,' the fortunate man said: 'You can never get to the mosque earlier than I, for I have four wives. When I wake up one brings me my clothes, another gets my shoes, a third prepares my bath, and the fourth cooks breakfast. The result is I lose no time. Now, my friend, go at once and marry three other wives, and you will know the secret of my arriving first at the mosque.'"

"The poor Turk followed the advice, and very soon he knew why the man with four wives got to the mosque first—he stayed there in preference to staying at home."—Leslie's Weekly.

Killing Time.

To read for either instruction or amusement is commendable, but it is not so for the sake of killing time. Late in life, after his fortune had been made, a successful merchant, Mr. S., took a young man into partnership. Entering the office on a dull day in the dull season, the millionaire found his partner yawning over a book. "What's that you're doing?" Mr. S. asked. "There's nothing else to do, so I'm reading," was the answer. "Nothing else to do? Reading?" the great merchant repeated in a tone that expressed wonder, amusement and scorn. "When you've nothing else to do don't read. Think!"

Imaginary Disease.

The British Medical Journal says that only an imaginary remedy will cure an imaginary disease, which is true to the old maxim, "Similia similibus curantur." It continues: "This may be condemned by the righteous as quackery, and quackery of a kind it undoubtedly is. But if the real end of medicine is to cure pain, when legitimate means fail, afford to despise anything that relieves suffering, even though the suffering be imaginary?"

Forgiveness.

"I can forgive, but I cannot forget," is only one way of saying, "I will not forgive." A forgiveness ought to be like a canceled note, torn in two and burned up, so that it can never be shown against a man. There is an ugly kind of forgiveness in the world—a kind of hedgehog forgiveness shot out like quills.

LONDON PUNCH.

One Occasion When the Proprietor Wanted It Stopped.

The introduction of Sir Franch Bunnard to the staff of Punch led to an unusual incident. The bookbinder tells the story. Mr. Bunnard had given up his profession of law and was devoting himself to writing. It occurred to him that a burlesque on the sensational novel of the day and printed after the manner of the London Journal might make a popular bit. He proposed his plan to the editor of Punch, who at once accepted the idea. The first installment came out, illustrated by Gilbert, Du Maurier and Keene and reproduced in Journal fashion. It "took" at once and became the talk of the town.

The day of the first issue the senior proprietor of Punch was ill in bed. The number reached him with the Journal burlesque folded on the outside. At first he thought a Journal had been sent him by mistake, but when he discovered that the page formed a portion of Punch he did not stop to read it, but sprang out of bed at once, dressed and hurried to the office.

"Stop Punch!" he cried, bursting into the room. "Stop Punch! You've got a page of the Journal in the form!" It took considerable explanation to satisfy him that some dreadful mistake had not been made.

This was Mr. Bunnard's first appearance on the Punch staff. The next night Thackeray took him to the weekly dinner and introduced him: "Gentlemen—the new boy."

A Narrow Squeak.

"Your front door is unlocked, sir!" shouted the policeman when he found that Mr. Careless Householder had gone to bed without attending to his locks.

"It's all right," replied the burglar from the bedroom window a minute later; "my son will lock it when he comes home. Here's a shilling for you."

"An easily earned bob," chuckled the policeman as he walked away.

"A narrow squeak," said the burglar, with a sheet round his shoulders.

"Very," replied his accomplice, whose hands were tightly clasped over poor Mr. Careless Householder's mouth.—London Express.

Skirt and Shirt.

"Skirt" is etymologically the same word as "shirt," though it has come over another linguistic route and properly means a short garment. In fact, "skirt," "shirt," "short," "shear," "kirtle" and "cut" are in all probability near relations. But "skirt" has got itself specialized to a lower garment, with special reference to the lower edge thereof, the boundary where the garment is cut short, whence the verb "to skirt."—The Times.

Their Mean Business.

The Democratic Committee of Trimble county has announced that no money or whisky will be allowed used in the primary on November 6 in that county, and that it will not certify the returns for any candidate who uses illegitimate means to win.

Second Day of D. A. R. Conference.

Friday morning, the second day of the Conference, was a beautiful fall morning and the Daughters assembled feeling very happy and interested in the program of the morning.

The State Regent called the meeting to order by asking all to join in repeating the Lord's prayer.

Mrs. J. M. Arnold of the Rebecca Bryan Boone Chapter, of Newport, gave an interesting talk on "Patriotic Education." She pictured so forcibly the need of the cooperation of the Daughters in the education of our mountain people, and the need of children being taken from the factories in which they were slowly but surely meeting an early death, that it was moved and seconded that the Tenth Conference organize a Kentucky Educational Fund and induce some mountain girl at a mountain school.

In a few minutes one hundred dollars, the amount necessary to defray the expenses for one year's tuition was raised by the following subscriptions, even more than the required sum was raised: Vice President General Mrs. Sallie Marshall Hardy, of Louisville, pledged $25 in behalf of the Public Schools, of Louisville, which she was sure could be raised by one penny being collected from each child.

John Marshall Chapter, Louisville, $5. Fincastle Chapter, Louisville, $25. St. Asaph Chapter, Danville, $5.

Col. John Green Chapter, Hopkinsville, amount not named, but a pledge from the Regent.

Paducah Chapter, Paducah, $5. Boonesborough Chapter, Richmond, $5.

Elizabeth Kenton Chapter, Covington, $5.

Gen. Evans Shelby Chapter, Owensboro, amount not named.

Isaac Shelby Chapter, Shelbyville, $5. Jemima Johnson Chapter, Paris, $5. Rebecca Bryan Boone Chapter, Newport, $5.

Mrs. Mary G. Edmunds, of Hopkinsville, gave a very entertaining and bright talk on the "American Monthly Magazine." She spoke of the valuable information the magazine contained and if each Daughter would read the magazine and keep in touch with the D. A. R., both far and near, instead of simply boasting how many ancestors they had.

She said the present circulation in an organization of 50,000 members was 3,700 less than one to every 13 Daughters. Her last word was for all to put on the whole armor of determination and make the magazine a success.

Mrs. C. D. Chenault reported two new subscribers for the magazine from the Boonesborough Chapter and one advertisement for it.

Mrs. Owen Davis rendered one of her beautiful songs, which was loudly applauded.

Mrs. Mary Edmunds made a motion which was seconded, that Mrs. James Arnold be appointed chairman of the Kentucky D. A. R. Scholarship Fund, and that she and the State Regent investigate the best school and select a mountain school at which to educate some mountain girl.

Mrs. D. B. Sperry, of Louisville, asked permission of the State Regent to present a message from the President of the Kentucky Daughters of 1812, Mrs. Geo. Wilson, of Louisville.

She mentioned that any one was eligible could confer with Mrs. Wilson.

Mrs. Wilson Escott, of Shelbyville, State Treasurer, made her report which was accepted.

The St. Asaph Chapter, of Danville, sent $50 to Continental Hall, Paducah sent $10; Isaac Shelby, $15. Many others contributed to Continental Hall, but the money was not sent through the Treasurer.

The Rebecca Bryan Boone Chapter of Newport sent $25 for the Isaac Shelby bust, as did the Isaac Shelby Chapter, of Shelbyville.

Every chapter in the State paid twenty cents per capita for State Regent's expenses to Washington and the Year Book, except one chapter—the Lexington Chapter of Lexington. They declined to pay the ten cents per capita for the Year Book, but said their reasons would be given at this Conference.

The Regent of the Lexington Chapter explained by saying the chapter was unable to bear this extra expense, as their treasury was never very flourishing.

Mrs. T. H. Clay made a motion that the Lexington Chapter withdraw from the Conference, as they were not willing to abide by the laws. They were asked to reconsider, which they consented to do, and if they paid the tax, they would be allowed to vote like the other chapters and still be members of the Conference.

Mrs. Sallie Marshall Hardy, Vice President General, gave a short but interesting talk on National affairs. She spoke of the window at Continental Hall which was to be a memento of Kentucky, with the coat of arms over the top, which was the first welcome sight when entering the building. The sum of $3,750 was needed, so after a dollar each from one President General and State Regent, each chapter was taxed to give the rest, on agreed amount from each.

Many other subjects were discussed interesting to the Daughters.

The election of a State Regent was then taken up, as Mrs. McCormack declined under no conditions to accept the Regency for another year. Mrs. C. D. Chenault was nominated and elected, though several nominations were made, all the other candidates declined the office.

The State Treasurer, Mrs. Wilson Escott, and Secretary Miss Margaret Butler were unanimously elected, as no other candidates were put in nomination.

Three invitations were given, Fincastle Chapter, Louisville, Boonesboro, Richmond, and Sam'l Davis, Bowling Green, and Louisville was voted as the next meeting place, the first week in October, 1907.

Resolutions of thanks to all Parisians and Daughters were read by Miss Goff, of Lexington, and after a song the Tenth Annual Conference of Kentucky adjourned, after a delightful and harmonious meeting.

Large Deficit.

An advance statement given out at Washington by Postmaster General Cortelyou shows that the Postoffice Department's deficit for the fiscal year ended June 30, last, was over $4,000, 000, or 27.83 per cent. less than in the preceding year. Total receipts made the greatest increase for any year in the history of the service.

—Misses Emma Gilroy and Lucinda Burns, of Lexington, spent Sunday with Mrs. F. P. Webb, in this city.

—Douglas and Joseph Embry, of this city, have located at Corbin, where they are engaged in the coal business.

—The many friends of Buckner Woodford, Jr., are glad to know he is able to be out after severe attack of fever.

—Mrs. Ossian Edwards and daughter, Miss Bessie, have returned from several months stay at Hartsville, Tenn.

—W. H. Neal, who has been visiting in Little Rock neighborhood for several weeks, returned to his home at Rochester, Ills., Saturday.

—Mrs. J. Morgan Browne received a telegram from Chicago yesterday afternoon announcing the death of the youngest son of her sister, Mrs. T. W. Case.

—Mrs. Henry Preston, who has been guest of her brother, Mr. Bruce Miller, and other Bourbon relatives for several weeks, has returned to her home in Ashland.

—Mayor James M. O'Brien and County Attorney T. E. Moore, Jr., have gone to the mountains for several days, attending Circuit Court in one of the mountain counties.

Past Grand High Priest Joe H. Ewalt, W. E. Board, Dan Peed, C. A. McMillan, J. G. Williams and M. H. H. Davis left yesterday to attend the Masonic Grand Lodge, now in session at Louisville.

—Mrs. Amos Turney left Friday for Washington, D. C. to visit her daughter, Miss Leslie Turney, who is attending school at Fairmont Seminary. From there Mrs. Turney will go to New York to join her husband for a month's stay.

—Mr. Sanford Talbott, of this city, celebrated his 92nd birthday Saturday. For 57 years he has been a member of the Christian church and has voted the Democratic ticket all of his life, which he says accounts for his long life of happiness.

—Capt. Henry Casey arrived last week to join his wife in this city, who has been spending the summer with her father, Mr. John McIlvaine. Capt. Casey has been in the Philippines for three years, and is now home on a furlough.

—Miss Maria Tipton, who has been home a few days returned to her duties on the Faculty of the Morris-Harvey College of West Virginia, yesterday. Miss Tipton is Dean of Women at the college and teaches English and Geometry.

George Kriener left Sunday to accept position with Kline & Gordon, the largest shoe house in the South, at Nashville, Tenn. Mr. Kriener is one of our most popular shoe salesman, and it is regretted by a large circle of friends that he has left the city to reside.

—Mr. and Mrs. John D. Frisbie, of Connellsville, Pa., have been guests at the Fordham Hotel for the past two weeks. Mr. Frisbie is a millionaire banker and business man of Eastern Pennsylvania, and with his wife annually visits the Bluegrass section of Kentucky to attend the Lexington trots at Lexington. He says he would rather spend two weeks in the Bluegrass region than to visit any other place in the United States.

Coal Going Up.

The advance in the price of coal in Paris has caused somewhat of a kick among our citizens, some thinking that our local coal merchants being responsible, but this is a very erroneous idea. Coal sold in Paris in August at $3.75 per twenty-five bushels delivered, and the same amount is now delivered at $4.25, and our merchants are only making the same small margin that they made in August. The price of coal here is fixed by conditions over which our dealers have no control whatever. The cause of the advance at the mines is due to the unprecedented demand, shortage of cars and increased cost of production, and high freight rates.

Those who have not laid in their winter supply, we would advise to buy now, for there is no question about it going still higher.

Missionary Tea.

The Missionary Tea to be given by the ladies of the Second Presbyterian church will be held at the residence of Mrs. R. J. Neely, on Friday afternoon at 2:30, instead of Saturday as announced heretofore.

PUBLIC SALE
—OF—
Blue Grass Farm

Having permanently located in Georgetown, Scott county, I have decided to offer at public sale, on the premises, on at ten o'clock a. m., my farm of 202 acres, formerly known as the Watt Gay farm, located on the North Middletown and Winchester turnpike, in Bourbon county, 1 1/2 miles from North Middletown and 12 miles from Winchester. There is on said farm a good dwelling of seven rooms, one tenant house; new barn (holds 20 acres tobacco); also splendid stock barn, good orchard. Good schools and church convenient. The best watered farm in the State. It is all No. 1 tobacco land. 110 acres in Blue Grass, 50 acres in timothy meadow, 30 acres in wheat and young grass and 15 acres for corn. Will also sell at the same time and place 60 to 75 tons timothy hay, 30 head of long yearling steers, 10 head of short yearling calves. Also a lot of farming implements. Anyone desiring to see this farm before day of sale can do so by calling on the tenant on the farm.

Terms on farm—one-third cash, balance in one and two years, bearing 6 per cent. interest; personal property cash. Possession given March 1, 1907.

Dangers of Defective Plumbing!

Defective plumbing permits the entrance into the house of sewer gas bearing germs or contagious disease to which the human system readily succumbs. Sewer gas is not necessarily generated in the sewer, but is frequently created in the plumbing system, within the home and enters the apartments through defective fixtures. If in doubt, consult us regarding the piping and repairing defective fixtures with "STANDARD" Porcelain Enamelled Ware, acknowledged as the best sanitary equipment.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circular and testimonials. Address:

WEBSTER AND MONEY

THE GREAT DANIEL WAS CARELESS IN FINANCIAL AFFAIRS.

He Troubled Himself Little About What He Owed or About What Others Owed Him—The Way the Famous Orator Charmed His Creditors.

As often as nature makes a demigod out of a man she tacks on to him some badge of infirmity, some sign or token by which the less favored of the race may know that he is not absolutely removed from them, but is, in certain ways, co-heir with them in common humanity.

The "godlike Daniel," "expounder of the constitution" and father of the sentiment of American nationality, whose eloquence the "applause of listening senators" did command, was mighty careless about his financial obligations, seldom troubling himself about what he owed or about what others owed him.

The late Erasmus Corning and Webster were warm friends, and thereby is explained the fact that once upon a time Mr. Corning indorsed Mr. Webster's note for a considerable amount. As things go in this world notes must sooner or later come due, and when this particular note reached maturity it went to protest. But Webster was the "great expounder," and the firm, not wishing to embarrass him, paid it.

Time passed, and when it was supposed that Webster's financial condition was improved Mr. Corning was prevailed upon by the firm to ask Webster if he could make it convenient to liquidate the claim.

In answer to Corning's letter Webster sent a note abounding in apologies for the trouble he had put his friend to, and wound up with a most cordial invitation to the gentleman to visit him, when he would probably be in a position to pay him, or, at least, to give him some sort of satisfactory security.

Corning accepted the invitation and went to see the expounder.

In due time Corning returned home, delighted and charmed with his visit to Marshfield.

Entertaining his partners with enthusiastic accounts of the great statesman's hospitality and with descriptions of the various incidents of his visit, Corning forgot to say a word about the main object of the visit.

Finally, after Corning had exhausted himself in describing the good time he had had, a member of the firm broke in with the remark, "Well, I suppose Mr. Webster was highly pleased to be able to pay the note."

"Highly pleased to pay the note?" responded Corning. "He didn't pay any note. He not only did not pay the note, but he so charmed and delighted me that he got me to sign another note for him for $5,000, and I am thankful that he did not ask me to make it $10,000, for I don't think I could have refused to grant his request."

An old Bostonian who knew Webster well told me some years ago the following story:

A Portsmouth (N. H.) tailor had a bill against Webster for several hundred dollars. When Webster was elected United States senator, the tailor went down to the "Hub" to see him about his bill, thinking that he was then in a fair frame of mind to pay it.

When the Portsmouth man got to Boston, Webster was holding a levee, at which were gathered the most distinguished men of the nation.

Presenting himself at the door, the tailor was denied admission on the ground that Mr. Webster was engaged with affairs of state and could not be disturbed.

The tailor sent up his card, which Webster no sooner saw than he ordered the gentleman to be ushered into his presence.

Receiving the man with a cordial hand shake and a look of supreme benignity, Mr. Webster introduced him, one by one, to the illustrious company, dined him and whined him, and in the course of time the guests, including the Portsmouth man, departed.

Upon reaching home the tailor was asked if he got the money for his bill. "Money for my bill, the mischief!" he replied. "Mr. Webster treated me like a lord, introduced me to more big folks than I ever saw before in all my life, and do you suppose I could have the heart to mention that bill to him?"—New York American.

A Punctual Artist.

One well known and decidedly artistic quality of Lord Leighton was his punctuality. He was once in Damascus and was urged to remain there, but he declined. His reason was that he had to be in London on a certain day because he had made an engagement with his model. A friend was anxious to learn whether Lord Leighton had actually kept this engagement, and he found that when the artist was ascending the staircase straight from Damascus the model was knocking at the door of the studio.

His Weakness.

"Alas!" confessed the penitent man, "in a moment of weakness I stole a carload of brass fittings." "In a moment of weakness?" exclaimed the judge. "Goodness, man! What would you have taken if you had yielded in a moment when you felt strong?"—Judge.

Contradictory.

Jack—You should have seen Miss Waldo. Her eyes flashed fire, and—Arthur—That's funny. You said a moment ago that she froze you with a glance.

Judge thyself with a judgment of sincerity and then will judge others with a judgment of charity.—Mason.

Anatomy of an Oyster.

To discover the heart of an oyster the fold of flesh which oystermen call the "mantle" must be removed. This is fatal to the oyster, of course, but in the interest of science and for the benefit of the "curious" it is occasionally done. When the mantle has been removed the heart, shaped like a crescent or horned moon, is laid to the view. The oyster's heart is made up of two parts, just like that of a human being, one of which receives the blood from the gills, and the other drives it out through the arteries. The liver is found in the immediate vicinity of the heart and stomach and is a queer shaped little organ, which is supposed to perform all the functions of a blood filter. Every oyster has a mouth, a heart, a liver, a stomach and other necessary internal organs, including a set of cunningly devised intestines. The mouth is at the small end of the oyster's body, near the hinge of the shell. It is oval in shape, and, though not readily discovered by an unpracticed eye, it may be easily located by gently pushing a blunt bodkin or similar instrument along the folds of the surface of the body at the place mentioned. Connected with the mouth is the canal which the oyster uses in conveying food to the stomach, from whence it passes into the curious little set of netted and twisted intestines referred to.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

Has the Wasp Affection?

A colony of wasps made a nest in the dark room of a studio last summer. At first the party who used the room did not relish their company, but for certain reasons he did not molest them. He paid no attention to the little buzzers, and they came and went at their own sweet will. After a time he began to study them and soon came to the conclusion that they were gradually becoming acquainted with him, his ways and his dark room. One day a stranger was seated on the window sill. The first wasp entering the room paid no attention to him, but made for the old crack in the wall. Then out came a big fat fellow who darted through the open window like a bullet. Within five minutes half a dozen wasps came with a rush at the stranger and two of them located him. But the writer has never been touched by his wasp colony.—Outing Magazine.

Raters, Sailabouts and Larks.

What is a rater, a sailabout, a lark, a question commonly heard among those not familiar with yachts and technical racing terms. A rater is thirty-eight feet long and carries the double sails—sloop rig and jib. The sail rater is thirty-two feet long, carries the same style sails as the rater and usually gets a five minute handicap in rater races. The sailabout carries a single large sail and is built on graceful lines, with rounded sides and ends, while the lark has square sides and ends and carries the single sail. Few larks are built now. Most of the rackets recently built have the double centerboard. The centerboard prevents drifting sideways, and the single board is often entirely out of water during heavy winds; hence the use of the double board.

Ceylon Sharks.

Sharks infest the waters of Ceylon, and the pearl divers of that region are in deadly fear of these wolves of the deep. The divers are mostly Tamils and Moormen and display marvelous endurance and pluck. To protect themselves against the ever present danger to which the presence of the sharks exposes them the divers carry charms given them by recognized "shark binders" who receive a small government fee and a dozen oysters a day from each boat. Owing to the constant noise and splashing, the sharks are generally kept at a distance, and accidents are rare.

Famous King Og.

Og, the famous king of Bashan, mentioned in Deuteronomy, had a bedstead nine cubits long, or about sixteen and a half feet. It is doubtful whether Og himself was of the full length of his bedstead. Many bones of reputed giants have been found in different countries of the world, and informed people have concluded that the men to whom these bones were supposed to have belonged must have been from fifteen to thirty feet in height. All such remains have been proved to be those of the gigantic animals existing in a former era of the world's history.

The Study of Poetry.

Never before was there so much study of poetry and the drama. This is due to the modern extension of education and to the spread of reading matter among the masses. Poetry is not the fashion of an hour; it is an eternal need of the soul—a need that increases with the increase of intellectual light.—Edward Markham in Success Magazine.

Judicial Wit.

"Her Christian name is Handel," explained a witness at West Ham; "but she didn't like it and took up Annie instead."

"Most people," observed the magistrate, "prefer a handle to their names." Which, considered judicially, would appear a brilliant sally.—London Tribune.

Facial.

"Don't you think her face rather too thin?" "Well, I don't know. I can't see any place where it's worn through. Can you?"—Puck.

The river Grinnon has more tributaries than any other river. The total number is put at 2,500, including 436 large streams.

Zoroastrian Beliefs.

The Zoroastrian faith acknowledges Ormazd, Ahura Mazda, "Lord Wisdom," as the supreme god, with six archangels, Amesha Spenta, and a company of angels, Yazata, about him to rule and guide the world. The infernal host of fiends and archfiends who war against heaven and strive to destroy the future life of man is led by Anra Mainyu, the evil spirit. In discussing with these Zoroastrians the subject of the origin of evil I found that they look upon the supreme being, Ahura Mazda, as comprising within himself the two powers of good and evil—namely, Spenta Mainyu, the holy spirit, and Anra Mainyu, the evil spirit. This is similar to the monotheistic view held by the Parsis of India in opposition to the statement frequently made that Zoroastrianism is pure dualism. They believe also in the resurrection of the dead, which their faith has taught them since early times, and this doctrine is connected with the belief that there will come a saviour or messiah, called the Saoshyant.—A. V. Williams Jackson in Century.

Blind From Birth.

It would be of great interest to know how much Helen Keller, losing her sight at nineteen months, really retained of the sense of sight. With Laura Bridgman, a woman of much less intellect, there was evidently little or nothing left, even as a memory. With her taste and smell were very feeble, so that communication with the world was, indeed, through a narrow passage. Her sensitiveness to vibration was so fine that without any trace of the sense of hearing she was aware of the tolling of a bell. But her biographer, giving us in detail the record of the slow steps of her education, tells us little of what idea she was able to form of things. It is Schopenhauer who gives one hint of what we all want to know of the born blind. He says that a man blind from birth to whom sight was given by an operation put his hand to his eye to grasp there and not in their place the things he saw.—London Chronicle.

The Crumpet Story.

Oliver Wendell Holmes professed to have a profound respect for the Dutch, possibly on account of what he used to call "the European aborigines of America" being Dutch. He gave an aspect of slyness to his respect which inspired the idea that it was not untempered by humor, but he maintained that the Dutch, in spite of their stolidity, had a great deal of humor themselves. "For instance," he would say, "the crumpet story has a Dutch origin." "What is the crumpet story?" people would ask. And he would tell them that it had many variants, but the one with which he was familiar was about a man who was going to be hanged and was asked whether he had any last request to make and said he would like to have a dozen hot crumpets, very buttery, because he had never dared to eat more than one before.

Beyond Him.

In the staging of one of his earlier plays Joseph Jefferson, accompanied by a friend, attended a rehearsal, at which a lively disagreement arose between two of the actresses as to the possession of the center of the stage during a certain scene. While the manager poured oil upon the troubled waters Jefferson sat carelessly swinging his feet from the rail of an adjoining box. The friend could stand it no longer.

"Good gracious, Jefferson," he exclaimed, "this will ruin your play. Why don't you settle matters? You could if you only would!"

Jefferson shook his head gravely, but with a twinkle in his eye. "No, George," he replied, "the Lord only made one man who could ever manage the sun and moon, and you remember even he let the stars alone."—Harper's Weekly.

One Cause of Eye Disease.

A Scotch surgeon recently called attention to the connection between an uncleaned mouth with carious teeth and a form of eye disease. He describes three cases, in each of which the teeth were in very bad condition. The gums were soft and spongy, bleeding easily, while tiny drops of pus could be pressed out from their margins. The breath had a sour smell, and the complexion was of a muddy, sallow tint. In caring for these cases the first step was to purify the mouth and put the teeth into good condition. Such procedure, together with suitable tonics and local eye treatment, brought about a perfect recovery. This is only one example of the serious nature of dental diseases.

Iron.

In an article on prehistoric iron the Industrial World states that during Roman occupation, from the middle of the first century to 411, England had a commercial iron industry, which has been continuous to the present time. The Swedish industry has been continuous from the thirteenth century or earlier. In the American colonies the first successful attempt at iron making was at Lynn, Mass., in 1645.

A Hard Ship.

"Very well, sir," cried Dr. Kwack after his quarrel with the undertaker, "I'll make you sorry for this." "What are you going to do?" sneered the undertaker. "Retire from practice?"—Philadelphia Press.

Corrected.

Wife (during the tiff)—I have suffered every calamity that can befall a woman. Husband (calmly)—Oh, no, you haven't, my dear. You have never been a widow. Wife—You evidently don't understand me. I said "calamity."

WOODEN RAILROADS

THE FIRST CRUDE METHODS USED
IN GREAT BRITAIN.

Tracks Were Merely Stout Planks or
Maybe Blocks of Stone—The Flange
Was Invented Toward the End of the Seventeenth Century.

It is not known with any certainty when the first pair of parallel tracks for wheeled traffic was laid down in Great Britain or whether it was of wood or of stone. Perhaps the former is the more probable, the material being found everywhere and its long shape being much more suggestive of fitness for such a purpose than stone. But so long as each neighborhood produced everything it wanted such things were not needed. At last the destruction of timber near London made the use of coal indispensable. This could only be conveyed by sea, and one of the few places where it could be got with the limited appliances and skill of those days was the valley of the Tyne, just above and below Newcastle. About 200 years ago a considerable trade in coal for shipment began there, which soon led to difficulties as to getting it from the mines into the boats. The distances were small, but the art of roadmaking had died out and in bad weather pack horses could not carry enough to render their use profitable. Some unknown benefactor to his species at last laid down two parallel lines of timber for carts to run on. Probably they were merely stout planks at first, but the sinking at the joints would soon suggest that other planks should be placed under them, the structure then becoming fairly efficient. When flanges, either on the wheels or the rails, were first invented or by whom is not known, but it was apparently toward the end of the seventeenth century.

Those wooden railroads seem to have survived throughout the greater part of the following century, and even into the nineteenth in some cases. The Middleton colliery railroad at Leeds, for instance, was of wood until it was relaid for the use of Blenkinsop's rack rail engines. These were started in 1812 and were unquestionably the first commercially successful locomotives. Many other wooden railroads had existed in the same neighborhood for fifty or sixty years previously, and no doubt in other colliery districts as well. One was laid down near Sheffield, for instance, so early as about 1712 from the Duke of Norfolk's colliery at The Manor into the town, nearly one and one-half miles down hill. It lasted till 1775, when it was destroyed in a riot. Next year it was reconstructed with the first cast iron flanged rails by James Outram, their inventor. A wooden railroad long existed at Bath. It was laid down in 1731 by Ralph Allen, who, having gained a fortune by post-office contracts, acquired and developed extensive quarries of the celebrated Bath oolite stone on Combe down. These being at a great height and away from any regular mode of transit, it became necessary to devise a means of bringing down such a heavy material. The wooden railroad occupied the site of what is now called Prior Park road and was laid partly upon low walls and partly on the ground, "like the wagon ways belonging to the collieries in the north of England."

The colliery lines about Newcastle used in the eighteenth century rails of beech wood, carefully planed on the top and pegged down to crosspieces, which were even then termed "sleepers." Longitudinal timbers in addition were sometimes used, the extra height being of use in enabling the cross sleepers to be well covered up and protected from the action of the horses' feet. There were usually two lines of rails, the descending one being called the main way, the other the byway.

The cars held a Newcastle chaldron, or fifty-three hundredweight, 5,936 pounds. They were built of fir planks, strengthened with iron straps, and had oak or ash soles. They sloped forward, having slightly larger wheels at that end, which was found to ease the draft. These wheels were of cast iron, the rear pair being made solid of pieces of beech wood dovetailed and clamped together. It was supposed that brakes held better on wood than on iron. Some of these wooden lines ended in a short timber viaduct, where the land sloped much to the river, leading to a small quay, from which the coal could either be discharged at once down a chute into the "keel" or large wharves carried it to the ships or stored it if no keels were at hand. The wagons opened below to effect this.

In going down hill with a loaded wagon the horse followed behind, so that he might not be knocked down if it got beyond control, which is said to have happened rather frequently. The drivers generally owned the horses, often of a miserable description, and were paid by the trip or "haul."—Railroad Gazette.

Nests on the Water.

It is almost unthinkable that a bird should build a nest on the water. Yet that is exactly what the grebes always do. With reeds, grass and plant stems the grebe makes a regular floating island, somewhat hollowed out on top, usually near the open water of a marshy or reedy lake. We have several kinds of grebes, but their nests are much alike, sometimes moored to the reeds, but usually floating freely on the water.—St. Nicholas.

The Finish.

"What is a finishing school?"
"It is a place where girls who have any lingering respect for their parents go to have it removed."—Life.

Petroleum.

The first mention of petroleum in America was made by Father De la Roche d'Allen, a Franciscan, in 1629. It may be a surprise to many people to know that both the product itself and the names petrol and petroleum were familiar at least as far back as the middle of the fourteenth century. In the Sloane manuscript (fifteenth century) mention is made both of rock oil and of the correct derivation of the name, which is mediaeval Latin and of course has nothing to do with Peter: "Petroleum, oleum est factum de petra. (Gallice, petroleum.)" ("Petroleum is an oil made from rock—in French, petroleum.") The property of drawing fire had struck the imagination long before the work quoted in "Nature" was published. In 1306 Lodge used it in a metaphor: "As the clay petrol draweth fire, so the looks do gather affection." The word petrol (or petreol) disappeared from English and did not return until the days of the motor car industry, when it was reintroduced from the French in the sense of refined petroleum.

Duels With Pistols.

Discussing pistols as dueling weapons, the Paris Figaro sought the views of a man who had the reputation of an expert on the field of honor. He at once began to rail at duels with pistols. He could not bear even to speak of them. The fact was that he had once himself at an encounter of that kind received a ball in the shoulder.
"Then you disapprove of them simply because you were defeated?"
"Why, I was not defeated."
"What?"
"No; I was a second. You may well believe that I promised myself never to mix again in affairs of that sort. However, one day I had to accompany a friend on the field. He had asked if I would be a personal favor, I could not refuse. But I insisted upon one condition."
"What was that?"
"That I should climb a tree during the firing."
"A good scheme."
"You think so? Well, I was wounded again. My friend fired in the air!"

Soldiers in Battle.

"It is important to be cool and self possessed at the beginning of a fight," writes one who has commanded men in battle. "As soon as the first shot is fired men become nervous and go into action with a calmness which is most impressive. High explosive shells, with their deafening noise, make the most impression on young and unseasoned soldiers, while shrapnel affects the old soldiers the most. Those who imagine that it is possible to see a heroic look on men's faces at a decisive moment are completely mistaken. Their faces are pale and have a hard look about them. The struggle which is going on within them betrays itself by the nervous haste of their firing."

Mosquitoless Cities.

Over in Europe there are many happy towns where the note of the mosquito is never heard and the inhabitants don't care a snap about the pennyroyal market. But in America the cities which claim to be mosquitoless would not run up to a dozen. Denver is one of them, and, strange to say, Grand Rapids, Mich., only a short way from the great Gehennas of Lake Superior, is another. The explanation is that the city is built on hillocks of drift sand so deep and so finely pulverized that they absorb moisture like tissue paper. Stagnant water does not get a ghost of a chance to accumulate, and mosquitoes have carried their cargo of microbes to more congenial markets.—Health Culture.

Golf and the Liver.

Golf is the greatest of all games. It is the only recreation that is at one and the same time health giving and a complete preoccupation without being unduly physically exhaustive. But I am profoundly convinced that it is far better for a man's liver that he should play a poor game than a good one. I know from personal experience that it is far better for the liver to play a really bad game. Nothing stirs up the liver like the irritation, the excitement and the paroxysms of a really bad game.—London Graphic.

The Dog and the Stick.

Professor Wilhelm Wundt, the famous German psychologist, tells of teaching a dog to jump over a stick. One day the professor commanded his dog to jump, but held out no stick. At first the dog seemed surprised, and on repeated ordering to jump he barked. At last he sprang into the air and nerved very vigorously, as if to complete the absurd and ridiculous command to jump when no stick was held out.

Man's Debasing Influence.

"This African explorer whose experiences are being published in some of the papers' says parrots are delicious eating. I always thought they were very tough."

"But he refers to wild parrots. It's their association with men that makes most parrots tough."—Philadelphia Press.

Two Sides of a Word.

Miss Sharpe: "I've paid this bill once. Baker—Indeed, ma'am, I'm very sorry that I didn't recollect it. Miss Sharpe: I dare say that you are sorry that you didn't recollect it, but I'll take care of that."

The Good One.

"There is but one good wife in this town," said a clergyman in the course of his sermon—the congregation looked expectant—"and every married man thinks he's got her," added the minister.

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

"No, Sir! You cannot palm off any substitutes on me. I've been using August Flower since I was a boy, and I'll have no other."

Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the worst enemies of health and happiness? Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it is the best of all liver regulators? August Flower has a matchless record of over 35 years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints. Two sizes, 25c and 75c. All druggists.

G. S. VARDEN & SON, Paris, Ky.

Huge Task.

It was a huge task to undertake the cure of such a bad case of kidney disease, as that of C. E. Collier, of Cherokee, Iowa, but Electric Bitters did it. He writes: "My kidneys were so far gone, I could not sit on a chair without a cushion; and suffered from dreadful backache, headache and depression. In Electric Bitters, however, I found a cure, and by them was restored to perfect health. I recommend this great tonic medicine to all with weak kidneys, liver or stomach." Guaranteed by Oberdorfer, the druggist. Price 50c.

Miss Barbee, the Impersonator.

Miss Nannie Barbee, impersonator of negro and Kentucky mountain dialect, will give one of her delightful recitals at the Elks' Hall, on Friday evening, Oct. 19th, under the auspices of the ladies of the Second Presbyterian Church. Miss Barbee was born in Danville, Ky., and comes from a family in which slaves were an inheritance, and all her life has known colored people in their home surroundings. Her power of mimicry is marvelous, and she holds her hearers entranced, smiling, laughing or weeping as her tale goes on. In fact, she gives true mimicry on one string and provokes mirth and explosive laughter even more irresistible than a troop could. If you want to spend a most enjoyable evening don't fail to hear this lady.

Advice To The Negroes

In a letter to A. N. Johnson, a negro editor, of Mobile, Ala., Gov. Jelks lays down the law to the negroes of the state without quibble. He says:

"It is time for plain speaking. Your leading people must know that the time for insistent idleness of its lazy members and the crimes which are sure to follow such idleness are leading to a feeling that a few soldiers and a few guns will not control," and after saying that all must work, the governor continues:

"And, again, there must be prompt giving up to the officers of the law of those who violate the criminal statutes. If those things are not done, the powers of the constabulary, the police, and the state guards will not protect the races from a conflict which shall be deplorable.

"I am writing you very candidly. Outlaw the loafer and the thief, and be particularly prompt in helping to hunt down the assailants of women. Ostracize them in your societies and consign them to eternal damnation from your pulpits. This is the best and cheapest way.

"Should the white people finally lose control of themselves, anarchy is upon us."

Pumpkins May Displace Sugar Beets.

Iowa framers may soon be raising sugar pumpkins in place of sugar beets. Experiments have disclosed the fact that pumpkins contain four per cent. of sugar of fine quality. It is predicted that in three years that percentage will be increased threefold, which will rival the best variety of sugar beet. The tonnage of pumpkins that can be raised per acre exceeds that of sugar beets. The sugar pumpkin may, therefore, open up a valuable field for Iowa farmers.

British Insanity Grows.

A government report shows that insanity in England and Wales is on the increase. Up to Jan. 1 there was an increase of lunatics there of 2,150 over that of the previous year, and an average annual rate of increase for the past ten years, of 2,554. During last year the population increased 1.2 per cent., while the number of lunatics increased 1.8 per cent. Putting the matter in another way one person in every 283 of population is now insane, which is a larger proportion than exists in any other country on the globe.

In analyzing the cause of lunacy the British commissioners assign first place to intemperance. Other causes are hereditary influence, domestic trouble, financial circumstances, mental anxiety, overwork, love affairs. It is interesting to note, however, that intemperance is especially prominent in cases of males, while heredity is corresponding prominent in cases of females. As regards other causes the sexes are about equally divided. Geographically the largest increase of lunacy occurs in London. Analyzed, the causes there are perhaps more marked than in other parts of the country. Yet the home counties of Middlesex and Essex show increases with corresponding division of causes.

In both city and country, however, insanity among boys and girls under 15 years is startling, they being sent to the asylums at the rate of 266 a year. When these cases are analyzed several other causes are discovered, principal among them the use of cigarettes. Many of these unfortunate children are driven insane by hereditary influences. This phase of the matter is certainly alarming.

Changing Nature.

"The old saying, there's nothing new under the sun may as well be canceled," said a Columbia professor of science the other day.

"What is new?" he was asked. "Well, I call it new. Maybe you don't. There are a number of men—all big guns, too—working in connection with the Carnegie Institute for Scientific Research. One out in far-away Texas brought into the world a plant wholly different from any known to the modern botanist. He used salt and an electric current to fertilize part of a thistle, and the offspring was a plant of unknown species.

"Out at Cold Spring Harbor, L. I., another scientist is raising chickens. By cross breeding he has produced fowls such as Noah would have gazed at in awe and wonder.

"A Harvard man is transforming guinea pigs into creatures no other guinea pig would ever recognize as a relative."

Choice of Evils.

Smiley—I hope you won't mind if I bring a friend home to dinner tonight, dear?

Mrs. Smiley—Oh, no, sir; that is better than being brought home by a friend after dinner.

How He Felt.

Mrs. Kelly—All that ye are ye owe to me, Patrick Kelly!
Mr. Kelly—Well, if Oi iv'r git 30 cents Oi'll give it to ye and settle the indebtedness.

Difficult Proposition.

All goes well with the son and heir of the crown prince and princess of Germany, and it only remains to be hoped that the youngster's uncles and aunts are as fond of it as are its adoring parents. Young people, especially very young people, have such original ways of looking at these domestic joys. A quite well-authenticated story of the advent of Queen Victoria's olive branches serves for illustration. A short time before the happy event was expected, the Prince Consort took one of the royal children aside, and in course of conversation casually said: "I think, my dear, it is very likely that the queen will soon present you with another little brother or sister. Which of the two would you prefer?" The child thought out the matter with puckered brows for a few minutes, then gravely said, "Well, I think, if it is the same to mamma, I should prefer a pony."

Negro Campaign Book.

Under the auspices of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee, a supplemental campaign textbook has been issued for circulation among negroes in the North. It represents to them that their brethren in the South, oppressed by the Jim Crow law and other similar legislation, are calling to them to help elect Republican members of Congress, who will uphold the President in his stand on the race question.

Did Good Work.

A new era in the advancement of Kentucky's resources is believed to have begun by the fifth State Development Convention, which completed its work at Winchester Friday night. Much work of importance was accomplished, in addition to the formation of a permanent organization and other work given an impetus which will bring it through to a successful ending. Owensboro may be chosen as the next meeting place, an invitation being expected when the executive committee meets within a few days.

Good Price For a Trotter.

Gov. Francis 2:11½, son of Arian 2:07½ and Gracie V., was sold Friday at Lexington to W. O. Foote, of Dallas, Tex. The colt has been owned in partnership by George C. Graddy, of Versailles, and Mr. Foote, and Mr. Graddy sold his half interest for $6,000. The colt was sold later to a New York party for $12,000.

Oldest Trotter in Training.

Van Zandt, winner of the 2:10 class trot at Lexington last week, is the oldest mare in America in training. She has passed her sixteenth birthday and was better last week than she has been at any time during her career, as she reduced her record to 2:09. The owner and driver, J. Devereaux, of Hopewell Junction, New York, has been training her since she was a yearling. Several years ago she took a record of 2:10 at Memphis. She establishes a record for mares being long in service on the turf.

A Wonderful Record.

As made up by improved and exact processes Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. It cures the backache, periodical headaches, the dragging-down distress in the pelvic region, the pain and tenderness over the lower abdominal region, dries up the pelvic catarrhal drain, so disagreeable and weakening, and overcomes every form of weakness incident to the organs distinctly feminine.

"Favorite Prescription" is the only medicine for women, the makers of which are not afraid to print their formula on the bottle wrapper, thus taking their patrons into their full confidence. It is the only medicine for women, every ingredient of which has the strongest possible endorsement of the most eminent medical practitioners and writers of our day, recommending it for the diseases for which "Favorite Prescription" is used. It is the only put-up medicine for women, sold through druggists, which does not contain a large percentage of alcohol, so harmful in the long run, especially to delicate women. It has more genuine cures to its credit than all other medicines for women combined, having saved thousands of sufferers from the operating table and the surgeon's knife. It has restored delicate, weak women to strong and vigorous health and vitality, making motherhood possible, where there was barrenness before, thereby brightening and making happy many thousands of homes by the advent of little ones to strengthen the marital bonds and add sunshine where gloom and despondency had reigned before.

Write to Dr. R. V. Pierce. He will send you good, fatherly, professional advice, in a plain, sealed envelope, absolutely free. Address him at Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets do not gripe. They effectually cleanse the system of accumulated impurities. The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, by Dr. Pierce, 1008 pages, is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address as above.

An Odd Show.

The famous Brothers Royer Next Door Co., is without a doubt the queerest combination of its kind in America. The piece is odd, the scenery is odd, and the cast includes the most famous clowns in America, such as Lon Moore, Shorty Manard, Sidney Shepar, James Royer and Archie Royer. All five have played clown for Walter L. Main, Barnum & Bailey, Ringling Bros. and the great Wallace Show for the past ten years. They should certainly keep things moving at a lively pace in "Next Door."

"The Royer Brothers in 'Next Door' pleased a large audience in Park theatre Wednesday evening. The athletic feats performed by the brothers were very difficult, and the way in which they were handled proved them to be artists. The entire program was filled by stars of the profession, and everyone went away pleased, hoping for the future attractions to be of the same order."—Shenandoah, Pa.
